Miss Leavens's subject was "Art of the Renaissance," and very charmingly indeed did she unfold her little tales and intimate stories concerning the great period like which there has been nothing since until the present day. She said she is one of those who believe that the world is growing better, and that this time and this day is far, way shead of the age of the Renaissance in its attitude toward life, which after all is the beginning of attainment. Broker Recognizes Name of Owner Inside Watch Girl Gave Lover.

Wilkesbarre. Pa., November 20.—
James Franklin left this section for the West fifteen years ago. Before going he called on one of his girl friends, and as he was leaving she presented him with a gold watch and chain.

Franklin remained in the West until a few days ago. He came back in hard luck, and to keep from starving decided to pawn his watch. When he received a ticket and the money he handed over the timepiece. The broker saw the name of a well-known man on the inside of the case, and after he had hunted him up learned that the watch was stolen afteen years ago.

Franklin was arrested, and he told his story, naming the girl. The owner of the watch then remembered that this girl was in his employ when the theft occurred. Franklin was released, and it was decided not to arrest the girl.
